Looking for a way to get involved at USC, gain hands-on experience, and connect with the community around campus? Come learn about the many ways you can be part of the Joint Educational Project (JEP)!

JEP offers opportunities for students across all majors, interests, and experience levels. Whether you're interested in education, health, law, STEM, the arts, social justice, community engagement, or something entirely different, there are plenty of ways to find an experience that connects with what you care about.

Stop by to learn about volunteer opportunities connected to USC courses — including classes that may offer extra credit for participation — as well as work-study and non-work-study jobs, leadership roles, and other ways to get involved throughout the year. You'll also have the chance to meet current JEP student leaders and staff, ask questions, and hear firsthand what it's like to be part of JEP: from working with local schools and community organizations to building professional skills, exploring career interests, and finding a community at USC.

No RSVP required.
